Steps for selecting a dining set from PODIUM

- Step 1: Choose a dining table of the right size for your space and usage.
- Step 2: Learn the right way to match chairs and table if you have limited space.
- Step 3: Get a better understanding of PODIUM's dining tables.
- Step 4: See our wide selection of dining tables in a variety of designs.
- Step 5: Know PODIUM's dining chairs better and pick your pieces.
- Step 6: Find out more details about our dining chairs.
- Step 7: Explore our recommended dining set layouts.
- Step 8: Visit PODIUM showroom to try our pieces in person.

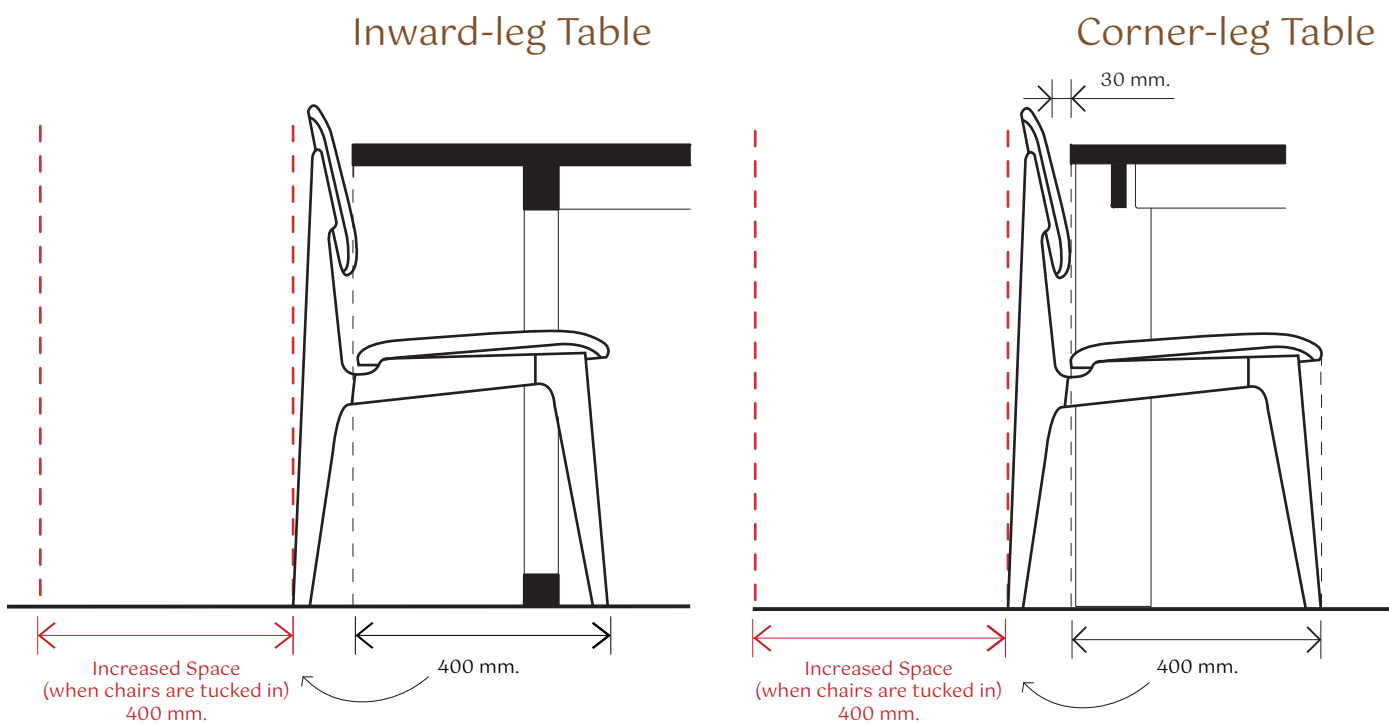

Step 1: First, you need to know the exact usable area of your dining room. Once you know this, you can choose a table of the right size that will leave a suitable circulation area around it when placed with chairs, as recommended below.

There should be at least 950 mm. of space around the table for chairs to be pulled back, or 1200 mm. if you need a space for people to walk around when others are seated.

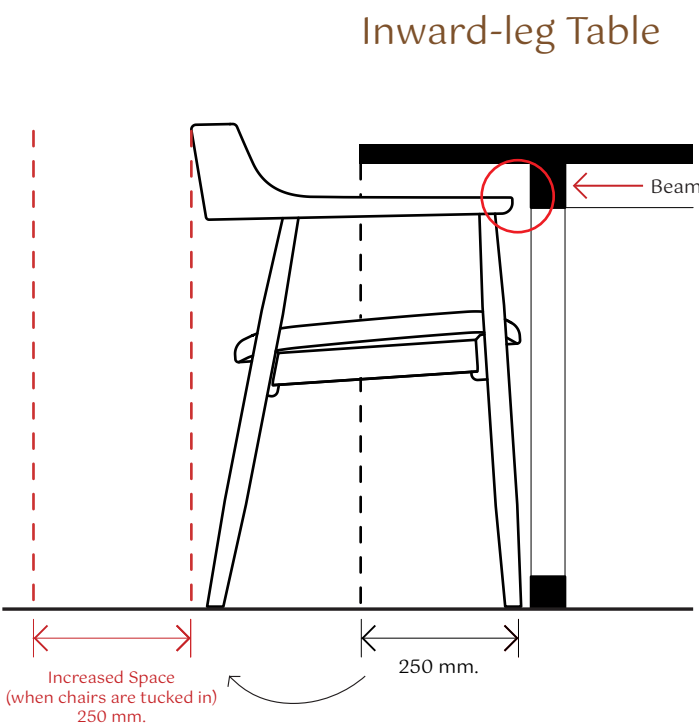

Step 2: If you have limited space and want to maximize the usable area around your dining set, one of the easiest ways to do it is by tucking your chairs beneath the tabletop when they are not in use. Therefore, make sure you pick a perfect match of chairs and table.

Examples:

By choosing our armless dining chairs, you have the option to fully tuck them under the table like this, regardless of the table model you pair them with.

This feature proves especially advantageous when dealing with limited space, as it allows you to maximize the available area.

On the other hand, if you prefer dining arm-chairs because of their superior comfort, it is essential to consider their limitations.

You will be able to tuck the armchairs under the table less deeply than the armless chairs since all our dining tables have supporting structures like "beams" or "aprons" beneath the tabletops, providing enhanced strength and durability.

This causes the arms of the chairs to collide with the tables' supporting structures, preventing you from pushing the chairs all the way in.

Please keep in mind that if you choose to pair the armchairs with a dining table featuring "aprons" beneath its top, you will not be able to tuck them in, as the aprons will block up the chairs' arms.

However, this table type offers some advantages, such as accommodating more chairs on the sides of the table or using larger chairs. Because the table legs are positioned at its corners rather than in the middle, it gives additional space for placing chairs on both sides.

This table type also enhances convenience, as you can sit at its sides without straddling the table legs, allowing users to move more freely.

As mentioned, we strengthen our dining tables with supporting structures like “beams” or “aprons” underneath their tops, ensuring extra strength and preventing the natural buckling of solid wood.

Examples:

Step 3: After considering how to maximize your usable area with the proper choice of chairs and table, you will now get a better understanding of PODIUM's dining tables.

The type of supporting structures in each table model is determined by the position of the table legs, according to their designs.

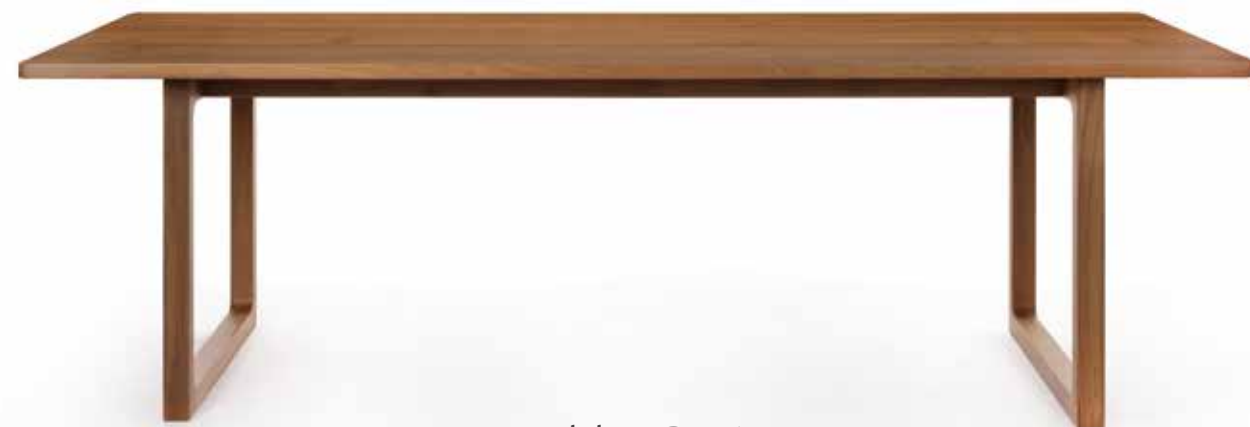

Based on their structural differences and leg positioning,
PODIUM divides all our dining tables into 2 categories.

“Inward-leg Table”

with “beams” under its top

Examples:

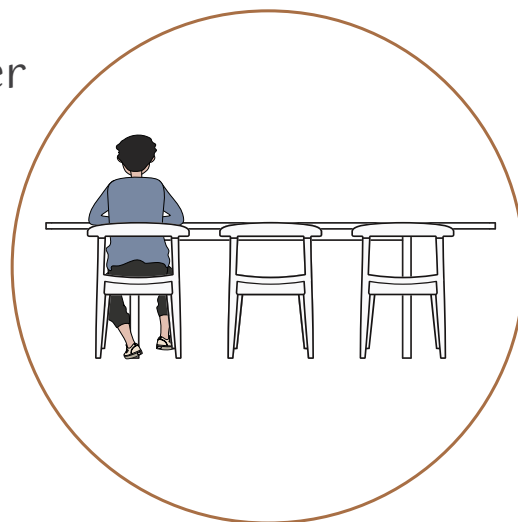

Maze Table

Inward-leg Design

It is convenient to tuck armchairs under this table type, creating more usable area around your dining set.

Yet, if you choose not to straddle the table legs, there will be less space for chairs on both sides of the table when compared to corner-leg tables.

“Corner-leg Table”

with “aprons” under its top

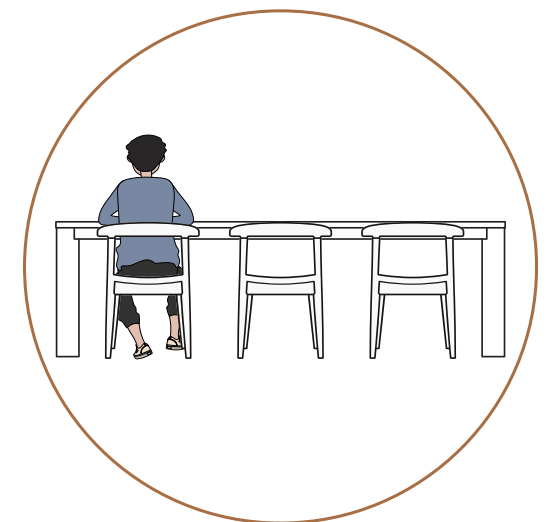

Matrix Table

Corner-leg Design

This table type allows for more space to place chairs on its sides, enabling you to sit comfortably without straddling the table legs.

However, you will not be able to tuck armchairs underneath it.

All dining tables from PODIUM are shipped in flat packs. We pack and transport them by separating the table legs from the tabletops while making the least empty space inside the box.

By shipping our pieces unassembled, we can save space during the shipping and move the furniture through doorways, narrow rooms or up to high floors easily. Then, we assemble the pieces to finish our service.

We offer a 10-year warranty against structural damages for household use.*

With extra care, we polish and paint our solid wood tabletops on both sides so you can see their beauty from every angle without worrying about splinters.

The tabletops are coated with F4 Star standard materials, which are free from harmful chemicals and resists stains from food and drinks, making our tabletops easy to clean and very practical for everyday use.

By utilizing leveling studs, our dining tables offer the flexibility to align their table legs with the slope of your floor.

Step 4: Let's take a look at our dining tables and see if there is anything you are interested in.
